By signing this release agreement between you and the Northern Michigan University Unix User Group (NMUUG) (hereinafter referred to as Installers), you give up certain legal rights. Therefore, you should read the agreement carefully. If you have any questions about the legal effect of this agreement, you should consult an attorney and not one of the Installers. Please be aware that you may not participate in the "Linux Install Fest" event unless you have signed this agreement. By signing this release agreement, you acknowledge the following:

1. That your signing of this agreement is partial consideration for the services provided by Installers.

2. That Installers do not promise that the work done on your computer equipment will be successful. An Installer will help you attempt to install, configure, or otherwise get a Unix-like operating system to work on your computer equipment. However, because of possible defects in computer software or computer hardware, including improperly configured computer hardware, not every attempt is successful.

3. That the attempt to install, configure, or otherwise get the Unix-like operating system to work on your computer equipment has inherent dangers that no amount of care, caution, instruction, or expertise can eliminate.

4. That any attempt to install, configure, or otherwise get the Unix-like operating system to work on your computer equipment, especially including any attempt to partition or re-partition your computer’s hard drive, may result in the loss of some or all of the data stored on that hard drive. That you are hereby advised that you should back up all important data before the attempt to install, configure or otherwise get the Unix-like operating system to work on your computer equipment.

5. That an Install Fest is an inherently chaotic event at which many computer components, peripherals and systems are present; therefore, you are responsible for the security of your property.

6. That you are expressly assuming the risks of the dangers set forth above.

7. That by signing this release agreement, you hereby forever release the Installers from any legal liability they might have arising from the attempt to install, configure, or otherwise get the Unix-like operating system to run on your computer equipment. That this release includes, but is not limited to, any losses caused by the negligence of any Installer who attempts to install, configure or otherwise get the Unix-like operating system to work on your computer.

By signing below, you agree that you understand the terms above (please sign in the presence of an Installer):
